hey all

so i've been using these boutique-quality products (without the boutique price, i might add) that my friend referred, and they're pretty amazing.

i drink the meal replacement shake every day to replenish my nutrients since the soil is so bad nowadays. its also great for weight loss.

some of my friends use that in conjunction with the fat burner and they've lost 7, 8, and 12 pounds in just one week. there is also a multivitamin on this website that has 100 mg of CoQ10.

i stand by these 100%

try em out. you can only get them at www.yor.com

yes, there are no chemicals. you should take the complete burn to your doctor to be sure that those are right for you, depending on your circumstances. if not, you will get a full refund when you return theproduct within 30 days.

the shake is good for everyone whether you need to lose, maintain, or gain weight. itnhas all the nutriets you need. read the label and replace the appropriate amount of meals.

the multivitamin is great for everyone as well. send m a message when you receive the products so that I can help you out with tips on how to use them.

Has anyone ever tried ProshapeRX? It's supposed to be the top pill in the United Kingdom and now in the USA. PureFatBurning.com is where I got mine. So far...So good.

Hello all :)

I have been working to lose weight for the past year now. Things have been up and down with my diet - at times encouraging, discouraging at others. You all know what I am going through! :) Over the last year I have really tried to stay on the path - eating right, exercising religiously almost every day, and still I hit plateaus that I just don't understand how it can be scientifically possible!

I have never been one to use a diet pill. But then I found out about this all-natural supplement called "EXTREME LIFEFORCE" from Extreme Kinetic (<http://www.extremekinetic.com>). It is an all-natural supplement that contains no stimulants, and that helps in terms of burning stored body fat for those that have at least 15% body fat or more. It gives you extra energy, helps suppress your appetite and gives you the additional nutrients that your body might be lacking due to your diet.

The results I have seen while taking this product have been absolutely amazing! Even on days when I "slack off" a little bit or indulge, I still continue to see good results. This is something that I couldn't do before over the last year. One indulgence it seemed would put me 5 steps backwards!

You can check out the product at the following link:
https://www.extremekineticonline.net/product_lifeforce.html

It is a very cost effective product - less than $20 a bottle, and they also offer free samples that you can request through their website.

I just received an email about a special offer they have for 30% OFF your order for new customers, so that is why I thought I would share this with you.

The coupon code for 30% OFF your order is AUG2008.

I HIGHLY recommend checking out this product! Like I said, it is simply an all-natural supplement, but it works wonders!

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me....

Good luck and Take Care!

Glad to hear you're losing weight and you found a product that works for you!

The concept of "all natural supplements" comes up quite frequently here in the forum. I think it's important for all of us to look at what "all natural" means. It means that the medications contained in the product come from "natural" sources. Strange, in that there really isn't a strong definition as to what "unnatural" means, and many people pour their own meaning into the word. While "natural products" haven't been necessarily processed in a lab, they may also have not been "cleaned" by normal cleaning processes in the manufacture of the product. It may also mean that the claims of the producer have not been validated by the Food and Drug Administration...a nice way of saying that there's no data on the side effects and toxicities of the product. Bottom line is caveat emptor..."let the buyer beware"! All natural products are not necessarily safer than over the counter or prescription pharmaceuticals, and you won't have anybody standing up for you on the manufacturer's end if there are complications.

There's a helpful website that gives a lot of information on diets and nutraceuticals. It's called Chase Freedom. Here's the URL: <http://www.chasefreedom.com>

For those who have a strong interest in nutraceuticals, you may want to contribute to medical research by participating in a clinical trial. There are trials available and your physician is in the best position to ask about enrolling. This is how evidence-based information develops so all of us know what works, what doesn't, and what complications can occur. Safe and effective is the goal!!!

Keep up the good work!

Kevin
